Adult Leadership Roles & Responsibilities

Committee & Program Leadership Reference Guide

Introduction

Troop 413's adult leadership runs on two complementary structures. The Troop Committee's primary responsibility is to support the Scoutmaster in delivering a quality troop program: handling finances, advancement records, fundraising, logistics, and chartering so that resources and adult support are in place. Program Leadership is led by the Scoutmaster and supported by the Assistant Scoutmasters, delivering the Scouting program directly to youth and working alongside the youth-led Patrol Leaders' Council.

This guide collects a one-page reference for every adult leadership role in the troop, covering what the role does, what training is required, what's expected of the role-holder, the typical time commitment, and who to contact with questions. Use it to understand your own role, see how it connects to others on the committee and program side, and help the next person transition into it smoothly.

This guide exists so responsibilities are clear and nothing falls between roles. If you're unsure whether something is yours or someone else's, check here first.

Part I: Troop Committee covers three categories: the Chartering Organization's appointed representative (not elected or hired by the committee), Required Positions that must be filled by a registered committee member, and Functional Roles where a registered committee member is preferred but program leadership may fill the role if needed. See the Table of Contents for the current roles in each group.

Part II: Program Leadership is split the same way: Registered Positions are actual BSA-registered position types, while Functional Roles are specialized duties assigned within an existing registered position. See the Table of Contents for the current roles in each group.
